John Frederick Bollmeyer "martyr" or "friend"

In 1862, John F. Bollmeyer was the editor of the Western Empire newspaper, a democratic paper, which was owned by Clement L. Vallandigham. Mr. Bollmeyer lost his life in a dispute over the paper's policy regarding its stand concerning the Civil War. The Western Empire strongly opposed a war with the south, the abolition of slavery, and the defeat of the South.

On November 1, 1862, Mr. Bollmeyer was accosted by Henry M. Brown. Brown called Bollmeyer a traitor and then pulled out a pistol shooting Bollmeyer in the head. John died instantly.

Mr. Bollmeyer's widow ran into a bit of trouble with the Woodland Cemetery trustees. She had inscribed on her husband's head stone: "and fell by the hand of an assassin. A martyr to the cause of freedom of speech and of the press." The trustees found the inscription offensive and improper. They asked her to make changes of which she refused.

The trustees told the superintendent to remove the stone and place it in the barn for safekeeping. She relented and had the following changes made: "an assassin" was replaced with the word "violence" and "martyr" was replaced with "friend" thus the inscription reading: "and fell by the hand of violence. A friend to the cause of freedom of speech and of the press."

Henry Brown went on trial for the murder but was found "not guilty."

THANK YOU for supporting us through our 180th Anniversary!

We hope you will continue to support the Woodland Arboretum Foundation as we move through 2022. Support of the Chapel restoration and preservation project is our most critical need as you will soon see the outside of the Chapel and Administration Building receiving new sandstone pieces and eroding and disintegrating elements replaced. Once the stonework is complete, the beloved Tiffany windows will return and be put back in place. The Tiffany mosaic floor will be restored and the beautiful interior woodwork will also receive a facelift. We are hopeful to open the doors to the public once again in late 2022.

Please consider making a first time donation or an annual donation to the Chapel Fund. Donate on our secure website by clicking below or click on the check to receive a donation form to mail in.
